About the Artist

Courtney Edwards is a painter and muralist based in Isabela, Puerto Rico. She paints site-specific, hand-painted murals for cafes, guesthouses, courtyards and homes across Puerto Rico, along with original paintings and commissioned portraits, rooted in the tropical flora, fauna and ocean life of the island. On November 17, 2026 she shows new work in Neon Dreams, a two-artist exhibition in Puerto Rico with Di Cortez.

In Her Words

“A wall is a place people will walk past every day. I begin with what already belongs there: the light, the plants, the creatures that feel like they should be present. Some walls want celebration. Some want a quieter companion sitting in the same room. I let the color fill the space the way life actually does—nothing stays neatly behind the subject.”

“I begin in my studio in Isabela. The spotted eagle ray seen while snorkeling, the way the reef looks through the water’s surface, the plants that grow like they were here first—those were the subjects first because they were the things that initially stopped me.”

Lair of The Octopus

Mural, guest-property gathering deck, Puerto Rico, 2026

This large mural was painted on a gathering deck of the property where classes, dinners, celebrations, and sunset viewings take place everyday.

Zoan Breezeway

Mural, Puerto Rico, 2026

Palm Oasis Room

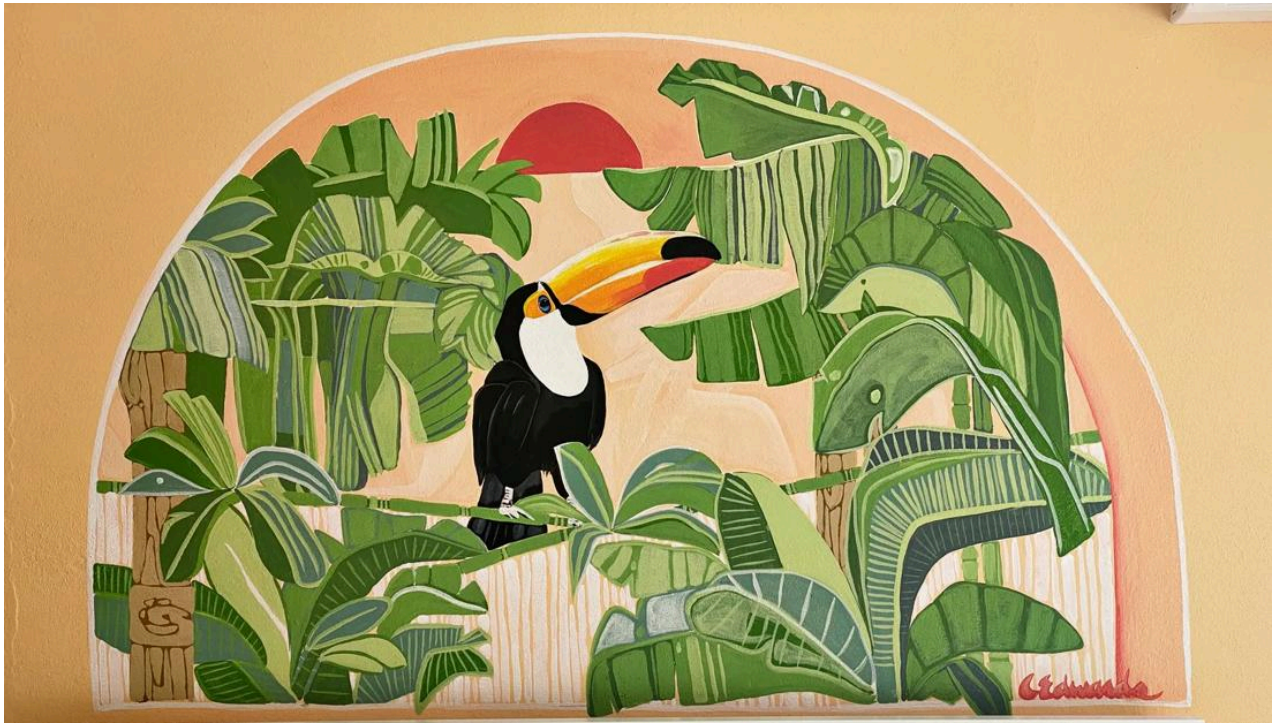

Interior mural, Puerto Rico, 2026

Zoan Krishna Wall

Mandala mural for a yoga venue,
Puerto Rico, 2025

Murals can be used to make a space feel more personal or as an opportunity to show off your brand. This site hosted a weekly yoga practice with Vedic teachings incorporated into the practice. The Krishna-inspired mandala was a beautiful way to adorn the space without doing something tired like a yoga school sign.

Casa de Sol

Series of exterior murals, Puerto Rico, 2023

Villa Sol a Sol

Entrance mural, Puerto Rico, 2023

Tak It Eze Guesthouse

Bedroom and suite murals, Puerto Rico, 2022-2023

Murals for Airbnb bedrooms and suites.

Finca & Fern Cafe

Signs and mural for a coffee shop, Puerto Rico, 2024

Signs and murals like these I painted for a local coffee shop are a great way to get attention when people seem to barely have time to notice what they are passing if it doesn't stand out from the crowd.

Zirconia

Mural, 2024

Electropical

Acrylic on canvas, 30 x 40 in. Neon Dreams, November 17, 2026

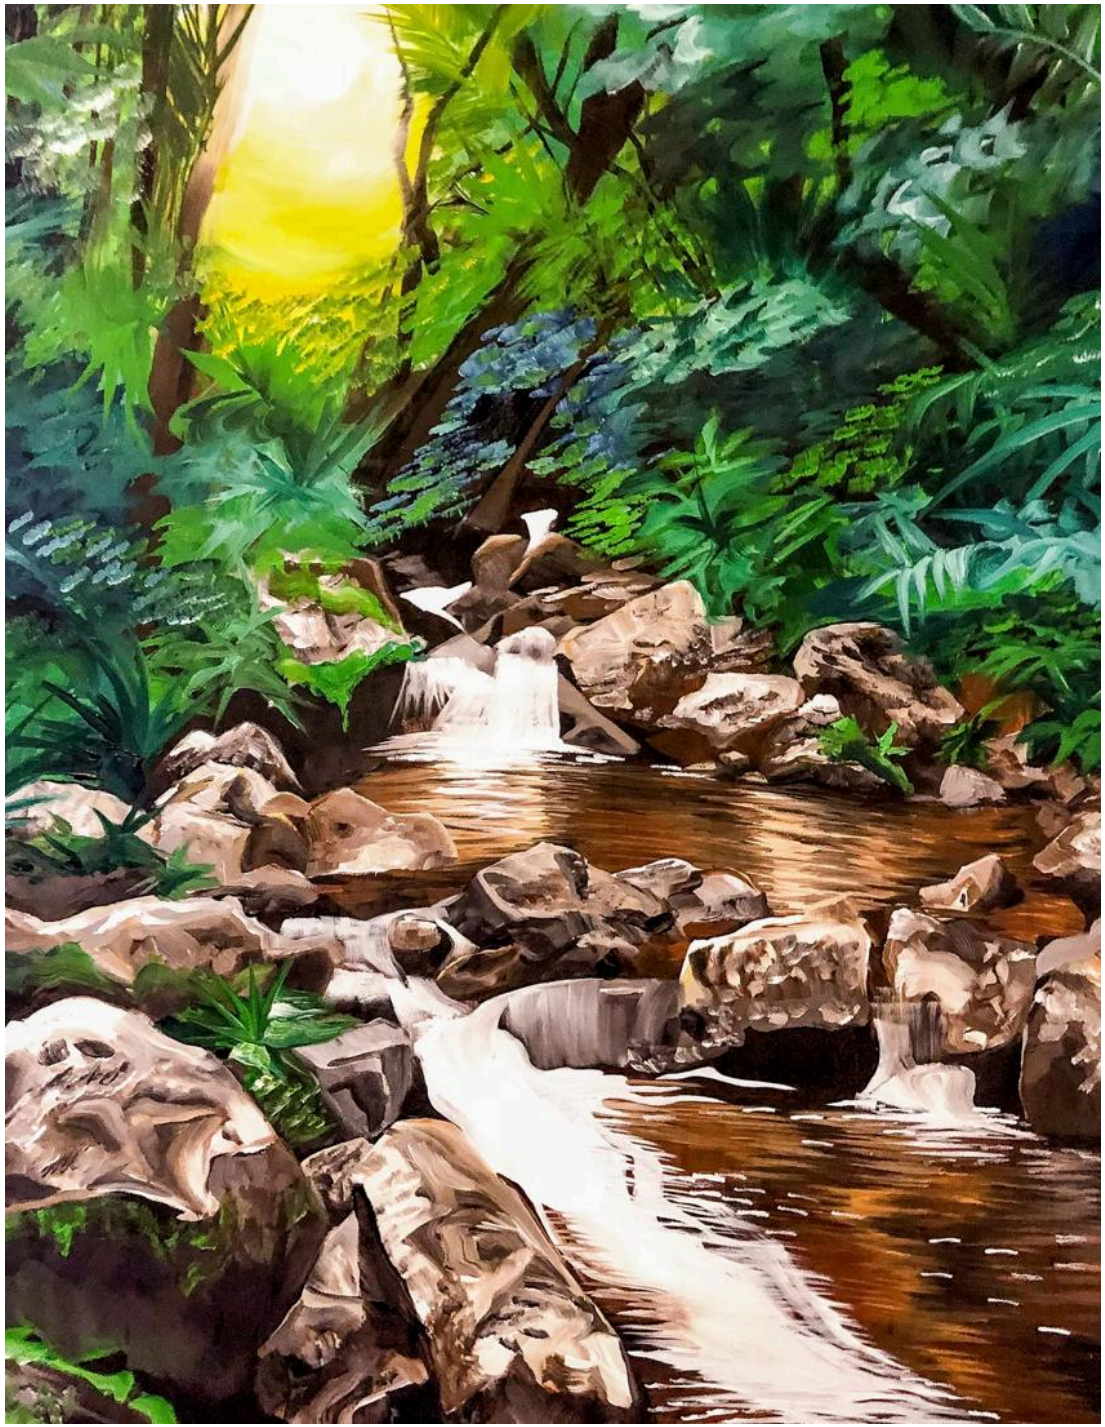

This painting was inspired by a real encounter with a Toucan while traveling in Costa Rica. These amazing birds really do look like a cartoon or something that couldn't possibly exist. I watched him eat these palm berries as long as he stayed and it was an incredible thing to witness. This original will also be a part of my new joint art show, "Neon Dreams", taking place November 2026.

The Black Bench

Original painting. Neon Dreams, November 17, 2026

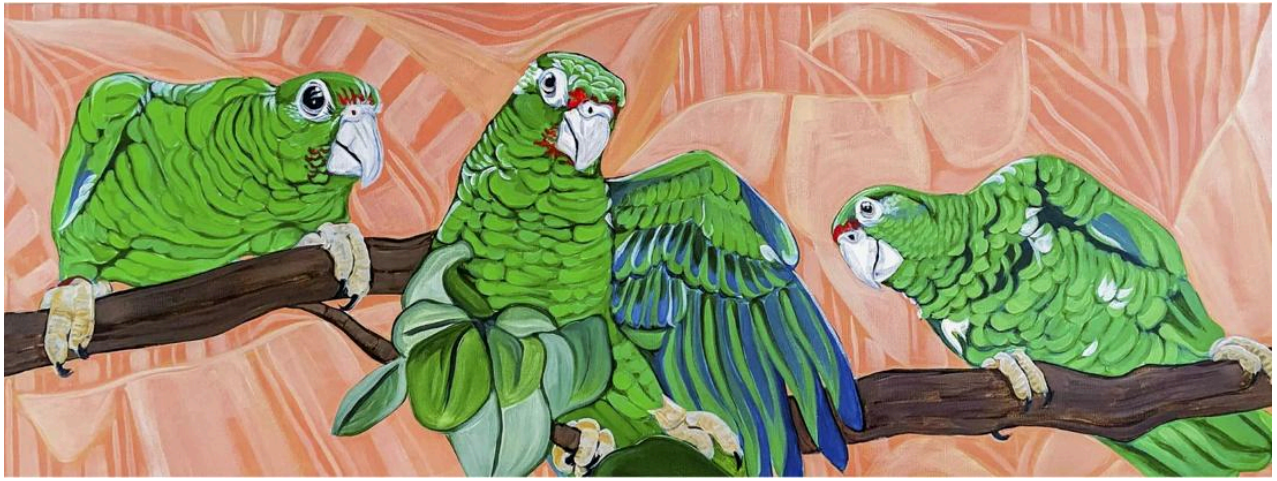

A deep study of application, layering techniques, and use of negative space- for my new joint art show, "Neon Dreams", taking place November 2026.

El Yunque

Oil on canvas

This original painting was created after my first trip to Puerto Rico. We circumnavigated the island in a 19th Century wooden schooner. One of my favorite memories from the trip was hiking through El Yunque to the highest point. On the way back down I took a photo of this beautiful little piece of the rainforest and recreated it in my style of abstract realism.

Parrot Pals

Acrylic on canvas, Airbnb project, Aguada, PR

created for an Airbnb project in Aguada. The owner wanted several site-specific murals and individual canvas works to fill the home with locally sourced tropical art.

PR Monkeys (Cayo Santiago banner)

Acrylic on loose canvas

This acrylic on loose canvas painting was originally a small banner hanging from a piece of driftwood found on the beach. It features one of the escaped lab monkeys living on Monkey Island (Cayo Santiago) looking out over the beach cove from the palms. This is one of a set of two banners I painted for an art show in downtown Isabela. They sold immediately!

Stormwatch

Commissioned portrait, oil on canvas, 18 x 24 in

This owner requested a painting of a special moment in time. Her dogs love to go out on the porch when they sense a storm is coming, and sit and watch it roll in. I used larger brush strokes and less detail to give the painting an overall feeling of "in the distance". Commissions are personal and created through a small planning session with the client to get a feel for what they value most in a personal piece.
